Motivated to beautify, refresh and decorate your home? Fabric is a great way to enhance your existing home décor and add a touch of unique individuality. Fabrics can be used to cover a canvas to create striking wall art, light upholstery and drapery, or cushions to brighten up an old or new couch.

There's a wide range of contemporary modern fabrics to suit your taste, style and budget. Browse through online stores and be inspired by the latest fabric collections to create an exciting environment in your home.

Considered a leader in the Textile industry, Mokum is an ideal site to explore. Recently short listed for the Best of The Year Award by US magazine Interior Design, for their outdoor collection 'Australian Botanicals' made from 100% recycled fabric, Mokum's latest range 'Dauphine' pays homage to the delicacy and playfulness of the Rococo style. The elegant collection features luxurious jacquards, delicate embroideries and luminous plain weaves.

In addition, Mokum is a distributor of other designer fabric collections like internationally renowned interior designer Nina Campbell, chic Parisian design studio Lorca and Osborne & Little.

Always at the heart of interior décor trends, Osborne & Little's latest collection 'Colombina Trevira' features contemporary colour groupings like plum, bronze, aqua, champagne and lime in versatile wide-width designs ideal for bedcovers and curtains.

FINDING MY WAY

IT'S no secret women are not the best map-readers in the world. We have to turn the map upside down so it's running in the same direction we are travelling in and let's face it, our ability to geographically place ourselves in the right spot doesn't always come naturally. Most luxury cars come with their own built-in GPS systems – but those are at a (considerable) cost.

That's where the nifty little Navman MY30 comes in. A refidex, although handy, just doesn't cut it when weaving your way through lanes with a phonebook-size map on your lap that flies onto the floor when you turn too sharply (a driving hazard if it gets wedged underneath your stiletto).

This gadget is like a butler in your car (would be even better if it was a chauffeur and did the driving too) but for a bit under $300, it stays put and doesn't require you to turn pages or examine tiny street names in the few nanoseconds you get when you're stopped at the lights.

Each model in the Navman MY series comes with lots of clever little features and will even tell you the weather, give traffic updates and find a restaurant. It has a big screen and slidey menu options (for when you're in a flurry and have no idea where you are).

Driving around a city you don't know – or even one you've lived in for six years – isn't always easy, so anything that politely gives you directions – as opposed to barking at you when you make a wrong turn – is bound to become a must-have and this little accessory tops the list!
